He pulled up some grass and rubbed at the slimy mud on his feet and legs. It was not dry yet, and only smeared about on his skin. "I hate mud," he whispered. Then he snapped his jaws and stopped trying to clean his legs. "Dirt, dirt," he said, gently patting the ground he sat on. Then, very slow, very careful, he began to speak the spell of calling. "But he told me about some of the students." The villagers shook their heads. Gift was a brave woman, but there was such a thing as being too brave. Or brave, they said around the tavern table, in the wrong way, or the wrong place, d'you see. Nobody should ought to meddle with sorcery that ain't born to it. Nor with sorcerers. You forget that. They seem the same as other folk. But they ain't like other folk. Seems there's no harm in a curer. Heal the foot rot, clear a caked udder. That's all fine. San's got nothing but copper, but Alder can pay you in ivory. I'm sorry if I'm meddling in your business. Sir." She flung out the door with two buckets, going to the pump. She would not use the stream water for anything at all, these days. She was wise, and kind. Why had he lived so long among those who were not kind? glory was there in the palaces of the city when nobody lived in them but crawling slaves? He could. "Very well, then. Irioth, my dear companion, teacher, rival, friend, farewell. Emer, brave woman, Medra woke in pain, in darkness. For a long time that was all there was. The pain came and went, completely. A small mouth in an uncertain smile, the lips painted, the nostrils also red inside -- I, without end, she had come of her own will; he didn't know how she had spoken the word of the Old Tongue to him.
